The short version

You can get help from Haven without an account.

We do not save what you write about a child, and we never link it to an account.

Haven never accepts pictures.

Who we are

Haven is a test version of a web app for adults in Nigeria who are worried about a child. It is run by the Haven founding team. Write to us at pheobeayo@gmail.com about anything in this notice.

When you ask for help

What you type stays in your browser's memory while you use Haven. Refreshing the page or pressing Start again and clear this removes it.

- If you choose from the list, nothing you write is sent anywhere.
- If you write what you noticed, Haven first checks it on your device for danger signs. If it finds one, it shows emergency help and sends nothing.
- Otherwise, Haven removes phone numbers and email addresses, then sends the rest to Google's Gemini service. Gemini only chooses which guidance fits. We do not store this text, record it in our logs, or link it to an account.
- Please do not write anyone's name, address or phone number.

Optional accounts

Accounts are for frontline workers aged 18 or over. If you create one, we keep:

- your name, email address, role and state
- your organisation, if you give it
- your password, stored in a protected form so no one can read it

We use these details to sign you in and show contacts for your state. You can delete your account at any time from My account, which permanently removes these details.

Pictures

Haven has no way to upload a picture. Never send a sexual picture of a child to anyone, even as proof.

What Haven keeps on your device

- Your language choice, so Haven opens in English or Pidgin next time.
- If you sign in, a sign-in session, so you stay signed in. Signing out removes it.

Haven has no advertising, no tracking cookies and no analytics.

Services we use

Service	What it does for Haven	What it can see
Vercel	Hosts the Haven website.	Technical records of each visit, such as your IP address and the time.
Supabase	Stores optional accounts.	Account details only. Never what you write about a child.
Google Gemini	Chooses which guidance fits what you wrote.	Your text, with phone numbers and email addresses removed. Google may keep it for a limited time to detect misuse.
Google Fonts	Provides Haven's typeface.	Your IP address when your browser fetches the font.

When the AI step is skipped, our server records only a short reason code, such as a time-out. It never records what you wrote.
